Election of Officers and Board Members

On Tuesday, October 21, at our lecture at the LDS Church, an election will be held for continuing board members and officers for fiscal year 2009.

The Nominating Committee, co-chaired by Peggy Heiman and Beth Weymer, included the following members: Susan English, Jan Eurich, and Judy Jaeger. Their recommendations, which follow, were unanimously approved by the Board of Directors on September 10, 2008. Please plan to vote on the following motions on October 21.

1) As recommended by the Board of Directors the following incumbents will continue in office for the 2009 fiscal year: Vice President, Olga Nespole; Recording Secretary, Margaret Boddy; Corresponding Secretary, Nina Gherardi; Treasurer, Elliot Swanson; and, Parliamentarian, Gerry Pighini. (President Myrna Fleckles will serve the second year of her two-year term.)

2) As recommended by the Board of Directors the following directors, in addition to the above-named officers, will continue during the 2009 fiscal year: Corinne Carter, Wendy Dewell, Susan English, Jan Eurich, Lea Frey, Argo Gherardi, Peggy Heiman, Joy Hulme, Judy Jaeger, Mary Reily, Hannelore Romney, Jack Silveira, Joan Shomler, Ginger Stoddard, Alice Swanson, Doug Turner, Beth Weymer, Phyllis Whitney, Connie Zilles, and Steve Zilles.

Recruitment and YOU

“How many new members have I brought into the Guild?” This is a question each of us needs to ask. We have excellent lectures, warm and gracious social events (which also serve as fundraisers), and interesting and friendly members. We’re an outstanding group! Let’s convince others to join for the stimulation and fun that we enjoy, and for the opportunity to contribute to the careers of emerging young singers through our philanthropic efforts.

Please make an effort to bring guests to our lectures and give them a membership form from the publicity table or direct them to our website at www.sjoperaguild.org from which they can download a membership form. Talk to your friends about what we do and the benefits you have gained as a member. Let’s each try to bring in one new member within the next year. We can do it!!

Opera Traveler

Bay Area's famed composer, Kirke Mechem, goes back to his roots for his latest premiere.

BY MORT LEVINE

The tall, striking figure next to me in the coffee line at the intermission of Opera San José's splendid Eugene Onegin provided a reunion opportunity with one of America's outstanding contemporary composers. Kirke Mechem is a fan of Opera San José, which performed his Tartuffe back in the '80s. The Molière comedy was Mechem's first opera, and he's been hooked on the artform ever since.

His reputation as a choral and symphonic composer stretches back nearly a half century. He's been a San Francisco resident since 1963. Opera offers an especially intriguing challenge, but his talents go much beyond composing. He does his own libretti and has a special flair for the dramatic.

A number of local opera fans trekked back to the nation's heartland last spring to the world premiere of John Brown, an operatic masterwork, on one of the most mythic characters in American history. Appropriately, the performance took place not that far from Potawatowmie where the rifle toting, bible thumping abolitionist was hanged. The opera was commissioned by the Lyric Opera of Kansas City, Mo. and has had an amazing impact on raising the image of the company. The Kansas City Star said the opera caused "the sort of magical success that composers and musicians only dream of at which the crowd lept to its feet and clapped so long that hands grew sore".

The work had a gestation period of 20 years because of its challenging complexity. In the interim, Mechem has been extremely busy with chamber music, artsong, choral work and a range of orchestral pieces. His two symphonies have been performed under Joseph Krips by the San Francisco Symphony.

And, new operas haven't been neglected either. Mechem's two new operas include a rollicking comedy, The Newport Rivals, based on the Sheridan restoration comedy and the famed novel Pride and Prejudice by Jane Austen. Both have been workshopped in different parts of the country and are being prepared for full scale performance.

The music from John Brown has been worked into an orchestral suite called Songs of a Slave. Since its premiere in 1994, it has been performed over 70 times.

The friendly, unassuming composer has his roots in Kansas, having been born in 1925 in Wichita and raised in Topeka. His mother was a German trained concert pianist and his father was a writer of novels and plays. So the words and the music come together naturally. His musical training was with some of the great teachers at Stanford, Harvard and abroad. He's lived with his wife and children in Vienna and London.

The true greatness of Mechem's music is its ready accessibility to audiences. He's lived through the long period of purely "intellectual" music which dominated much of the 20th century, especially in academic circles.

As he explained it: "I'm too old to be taken in by trends or jargon. I want to love a piece of music, be delighted by it, moved to tears or laughter, or to be taken by it out of myself."

After John Brown, it is long past time for a Mechem opera premiere right here in the bay area.

The Bonesetter's Daughter, composed by Stewart Wallace, premiered on September 13, 2008 at the San Francisco Opera. San Francisco Chronicle music critic Joshua Kosman reported that it was "a triumph for the company." In describing one former Adler Fellow and Merola Opera participant, he wrote, "the superb mezzo-soprano Zheng Cao in a career making performance (sang) both daughters Ruth and the young LuiLing." The New York Times printed a review on the front of their September 15, 2008, Arts section with a picture of Ms Cao. The review, by Anthony Tommasini noted, "As Ruth, she sings with an alluring combination of tonal heft and emotional vulnerability. And her performance as the young LuiLing is even more finely etched." (Opera Guild members may remember Ms Cao's performance at our Winter Gala at the Los Gatos Opera House a few years ago.) A native of Shanghai, Ms Cao has clearly created excitement with her performance in this new and vividly memorable opera.

Another Merola alumna, Laura Claycomb, was featured on the front of the Arts section of the New York Times (8-4-08). The page showcased a photograph of Ms Claycomb with countertenor David Daniels from Santa Fe Opera's performance of Handel's Radamisto. Anthony Tommasini also reviewed this opera and noted Ms Claycomb "sings Polissena with plush sound, agile passagework and nobility..." The Santa Fe New Mexican review echoed the Times with "Laura Claycomb's high-flying, bright soprano and dramatic concentration made Polissena poignantly memorable..." In early November Ms Claycomb will join the Saint Louis Symphony in Handel's Ode for Saint Cecilia's Day, and in later November she will sing the third soprano soloist in the Mahler Symphony No 8 with Michael Tilson Thomas at Davies Symphony Hall.

Elza van den Heever, a 2003-2004 Merola participant, was selected by the Seattle Opera as winner of their Second International Wagner Competition. Ms van den Heever sang selections from Tannhäuser and from Lohengrin. She received a prize of $15,000, and won the Audience Favorite Award as well. Seattle's General Director, Speight Jenkins noted that "the level of competition was even higher this year than the first year."

The Fremont Opera, performing at Smith Center at Ohlone College, presented a semi-staged performance of Rossini's The Barber of Seville in August. Three Merola alumni starred in the production: Nikki Einfeld, Eugene Brancoveanu, and Kirk Eichelberger. Ms Einfeld, a former Adler Fellow, sang Rosina. She is scheduled to sing Ophelia in October at the Opera Lyra Ottawa in an opera in concert of Ambroise Thomas' Hamlet. Mr. Eichelberger, who is also an Opera San José alumnus, sang Basillio in Barber.

Kirk Eichelberger performed in August with Festival Opera of Walnut Creek in A Midsummer Night's Dream. This opera was reviewed by Joshua Kosman in the San Francisco Chronicle. He noted "the star here was bass Kirk Eichelberger, who added yet another item to his list of local triumphs with an uproarious and commandingly sung turn as Bottom. From his stage-hogging introductory scene, in which he insists on playing every role in the upcoming theatrical presentation, to his lazy romantic interlude with Tytania, Eichelberger endowed every episode with grandeur and controlled temperament." In October, Mr. Eichelberger will sing Don Fernando in Fidelio with the Opera Company of Philadelphia. In November, he will sing Ferrando in Il Trovatore with Manitoba Opera.

Jorge Garza, a 1996 Merolini, also sang in Festival Opera's A Midsummer Night's Dream. His role was Lysander and sang, according to Kosman, "in a performance that combined gorgeous tone, superb diction and romantic ardor into an irresistible blend." Kosman went on to characterize the production as a "splendid 'Dream.'"

Yet another East Bay opera company, Livermore Valley Opera, is busy this season. In October they will be presenting Rossini's The Barber of Seville and featuring two Opera San José alumni. Layna Chianakas (1995-1997) will sing Rosina, and Robert McPherson (1997-1999) will sing Count Almaviva. They will be directed by Daniel Helfgot who has directed numerous productions with Opera San José, West Bay Opera, and Festival Opera, as well as many national and international opera companies.

West Bay Opera will tap OSJ alumni to open its fifty-third season with Bizet's Carmen. David Cox will direct, and Jason Detwiler will sing Escamillo. Carmen will be performed October 17, 19, 25, and 26, 2008. Mr. Detwiler will have just completed singing Germont in La Traviata with Opera Plus in Coeur d'Alene, Idaho. Christina Major, another OSJ alumna joined Mr. Detwiler in the performances of La Traviata, singing Violetta.

Additional OSJ alumni have had busy fall schedules. Thomas Rolf Truhitte has sung the title role in Parsifal with Genova Opera, and Siegmund in Die Walküre with Brazil's Manaus Festival. Jonathan Hodel sang with Asheville Lyric Opera as Romeo in Gounod's Romeo and Juliet. Christopher Dickerson performed in Carmen with the San Antonio Opera as Zuniga.

OPERA SAN JOSE' CELEBRATES SILVER ANNIVERSARY

A gala celebration was held on September 20, 2008. The event began with cocktails and dinner at the Fairmont Hotel, then continued to the California Theatre for presentations and a concert by many OSJ alumni who returned to pay tribute to Irene Dalis and Opera San José. A video retrospective featured Dr. John Bunzel, Jeanne McCann, Mayor Susan Hammer, Dr. Frank Fiscalini, Eilana Lappalainen, Bob Ruff, David W. Packard, and Placido Domingo. The concert began with the Prelude from Carmen. Then Scott Bearden sang the Te Deum from Tosca, and later in the program sang Eri tu from Un Ballo in Maschera. (Mr. Bearden will be covering the role of Varlaam in Boris Gudonov for the San Francisco Opera this October and November.) The 25th Anniversary Concert continued with a duet from Les Pêcheurs de Perles sung by current Resident Artist Michael Daily and former Resident Artist Daniel Cilli. Another alumna, Layna Chianakas, sang O don fatale from Don Carlo, and also sang with the Opera San José Chorus the Anvil Chorus (Stride la vampa) from Il Trovatore. Christopher Bengochea sang Che gelida manina from La Bohème and joined Barbara Divis in O soave fanciulla following her presentation of Si, mi chiamo Mimi from La Bohème. (Mr.

Bengochea recently sang as tenor soloist in the world premiere of From Greater Light by Alva Henderson with the Pacific Symphony at the Segerstrom Concert Hall in Orange County. In November, he will be singing Edgardo in Lucia di Lammermoor with Opera Idaho. He will be featured in that production with another OSJ alumna, Rochelle Bard. Ms Divis will travel to the Atlanta Opera in October to cover the role of Cio Cio San in Madama Butterfly, then will sing that same role for Florentine Opera in Wisconsin in November.) OSJ's Concert continued with Khori Dastoor's presentation of Sempre libera from La Traviata, and ended with the evening's cast singing the Brindisi from La Traviata. As Mayor Chuck Reed noted, Opera San José has brought much to the city of San José in culture and economic growth. David Woodley Packard concluded his remarks with, "Nobody thinks it's surprising that a successful business could start in a Silicon Valley garage...Why should a major opera company in Silicon Valley be surprising? I expected no less."

In Memoriam

Margaret Benson Slemmons

As our last newsletter went to press, our long-term and devoted board member, Margaret Slemmons passed away after a valiant struggle with pulmonary fibrosis.

Margaret was a beloved wife, mother, grandmother, sister and friend, who worked tirelessly as an advocate for the arts, politics and literacy. She served as president of the San José Opera Guild from 1998 to 2000, and made many significant contributions during her tenure as a board member. She will be greatly missed.

Contributions in her memory may be made to Hospice of the Valley, Saratoga Foothill Club Foundation, Planned Parenthood, or San José Opera Guild.

AN INVITATION TO JOIN

Established in 1947, the San José Opera Guild was formed to promote the appreciation and enjoyment of the operatic arts and to provide both volunteer and financial support to opera.

The Guild incorporated in September 1958 as a non-profit corporation under the laws of California. The original purpose of the Guild has not changed over the years since its founding. Financial support of promising young artists in the community is a high priority for the Guild, which helps sponsor singers each year at Opera San José, and the Merola Opera Program, as well as other opera groups.

Throughout the year, the Guild sponsors lectures and previews at three different venues to coincide with the San Francisco Opera and Opera San José's seasons.
